Last year, to support our ongoing goal of manufacturing the highest quality materials and to streamline our efficiency, we combined our lab with the lab of our sister company Pace Construction into one centralized location. We are pleased to announce this new lab is now an AASHTO Material Reference Laboratory (AMRL) accredited. The accreditation means that the lab is held to higher testing standards by specifically passing AASHTO and ASTM test method requirements. Our customers may be confident that the testing methods we utilize will translate into superior quality materials.
